Ravelin's 1985

You'd be surprised . . .

Have you ever wondered what the name of our school yearbook, Ravelin's means? It is a contraction of the word ravelings, which is defined as a thread or fiber that has become separated from a woven material. If Oxford High School were represented as a piece of cloth, each student would be a thread of that cloth.

As each year draws to a close, a class graduates and leaves OHS; a part of the cloth unravels. Similarly, as each year begins and a new class joins OHS, more threads are woven into the cloth. The cloth never stops changing and forming new patterns. Each student adds his or her touch of color and style to Oxford High School, and the cloth could not be complete without each student's thread.

The field hockey team really stacked up against its competitors this year!

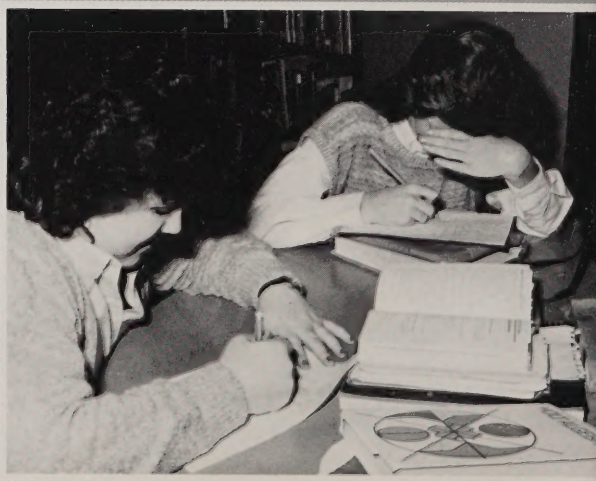
Lisa Koneczy, a Guidance Aide, looks up a student's locator card. Every OHS student has a card on file, which tells where he/she is during the entire school day.



Stacy LeBlanc (left) and Kim Peterson don't mind having their homework interrupted, but not by the dreaded photographer!!!

"Wait a minute! Just let me finish one more sentence, and I'll do a nice pose for you!" says Barbara O'Connell.

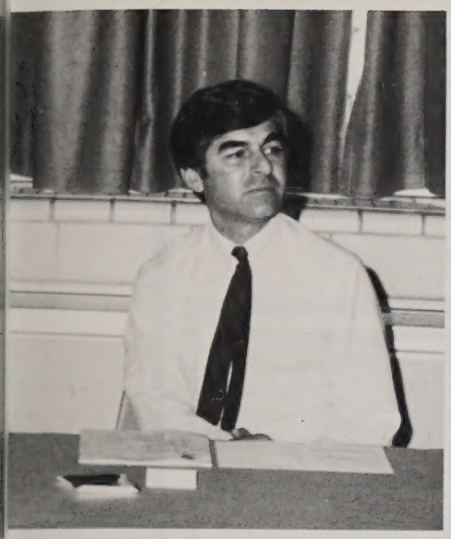
Governor Visits High School

Both the high school and the town were honored to have Governor Michael Dukakis at the school on September 20. Governor Dukakis came to pay tribute to the Oxford High School System as the forerunner of computer use in high schools in the Commonwealth. He acknowledged the success of the joint partnership of the school system and Digital Equipment Corp. in Project COFFEE, Project 50/50 and the computer center. Afterwards he was invited to the cafeteria for a reception. The band and chorus combined efforts in a tribute to the Governor. The Governor spoke about our role in leadership to better the public education. He is proud of our alliance with Digital Equipment Corp. and the programs it has brought to OHS. Governor Dukakis hopes to set up many centers like ours, statewide.

Mr. Lipert is the Vice President of the Educational Service Department at Digital. He speaks with pride about the many opportunities his company has had to help our school and many others like us.

Governor Dukakis accepts a gift from the Oxford Middle School made by Allard Gurby and shop instructor, Mr. D'Abasio. It is a wooden boat model, christened The Spirit of Massachusetts.

Governor Dukakis arrives in the late afternoon in a Massachusetts State Police helicopter. It is a good thing we have a large front lawn!



r. Driscoll talks about his pride in our school stem, and how the great advances and iginalities our town has had are what help make lassachusetts the leading state in the nation.

Governor Dukakis addresses the audience with a warm welcome, and compliments Mr. Gillies, the band, and the chorus on an excellent presentation in his honor. The chorus had sung a tribute to the governor written by Mr. Gillies and Mr. Gilman.

Dedication

When Mrs. Kathleen Fournier became a member of the Oxford High School Faculty in 1968, the institution gained one of its finest and most dedicated teachers. Not only has she distinguished herself as a very fair and understanding teacher, but she has also brought some distinction to a few of OHS's extracurricular activities. In 1970, she and Mrs. Chamberlain co-produced the Drama Club's version of the play Up the Down Staircase, which was a great success and has yet to be topped for its popularity.

Mrs. Fournier also coached the Girls' Softball Team from 1967 to 1972. During the '71 and '72 seasons, the team reigned undefeated, capturing the Southern Worcester County Championship for both years, first place in the 1972 Southbridge Tournament, and finishing off the two seasons with thirty-one straight victories.

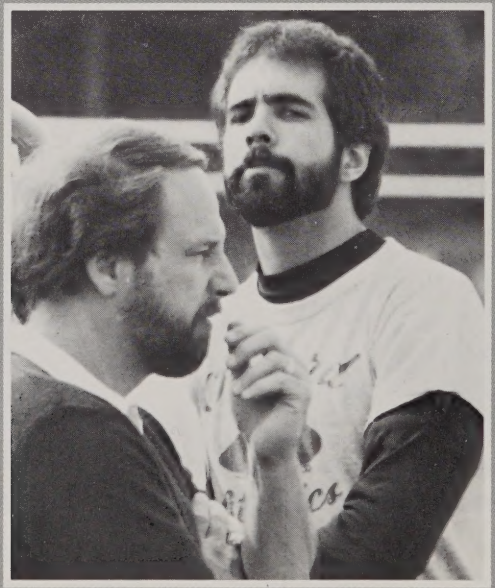
But Mrs. Fournier's greatest contributions to OHS have not been as well-noticed as these. Her real school support and dedication can be seen only by those who know her well. She is truly in love with teaching, and this reflects in her work. She never teaches the same course twice; for instance, she continuously updates her journalism course to coincide with the events of the time. One could never accuse her of just "going through the motions".

It is for these qualities that we, the graduating class of 1985, dedicate this edition of the Oxford High School's Ravelin's yearbook to Mrs. Fournier.

Mrs. Ahern, head of the English Department, keeps her office well-stocked with the numerous paperback books used by the English teachers.

Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Krevosky, both cafeteria employees, have been working at OHS for over ten years and over five years, respectively.

Mr. Bacon has been the principal of our school since the fall of 1981. Here, he addresses the senior class at the annual senior breakfast, held on October 31st.



Mr. Doldoorian, or "Coach D." as he is more regularly called, completed his fourth year as head football coach this fall. He is also the head of the Athletics Department, and has been so for three years.

Miss DiPinto is also a "Coach D." but her specialty is the junior varsity field hockey team.

Dedicated to Their Jobs and Devoted to the Students' Education and Welfare, the Members of the Faculty and Administration

Are More Than Meets the Eye . . .

Mrs. Dill (left) and Mrs. Brunelle both volunteered to work at the senior breakfast, held on October 31st. On this day the teachers cooked and served breakfast to the senior class.

Mrs. Longten, a cafeteria employee, really "takes the cake" for her work in the cafeteria.

Mary Thayer, alias Michael Jackson, waits to sign autographs in her Accounting class. She was an authentic Jackson, right down to the single white glove and can of Pepsi!

Julie Manuel shows off her coordination by typing, fixing her collar, and sucking a lollipop at the same time.

Four seniors enjoy the festive Senior Breakfast/Costume Day atmosphere, on Halloween Day. David Charbonneau is Count Dracula, Mike Elian, a mismatched "goober," Kim Maliff is a life-sized bag of jellybeans, and Sue St. Germain makes a devilish Satan.

Justin Wilson, flanked by Mr. McKeon, tries out his crutches on his first day back to school since he broke his leg. Justin has decided to take a "break" from his break dancing pastime to let his leg heal.

It takes all kinds of people to make up a community, and that goes for a high school community, too. Each student here adds a personal touch to our school, just by being himself or herself. It is this quality that makes the

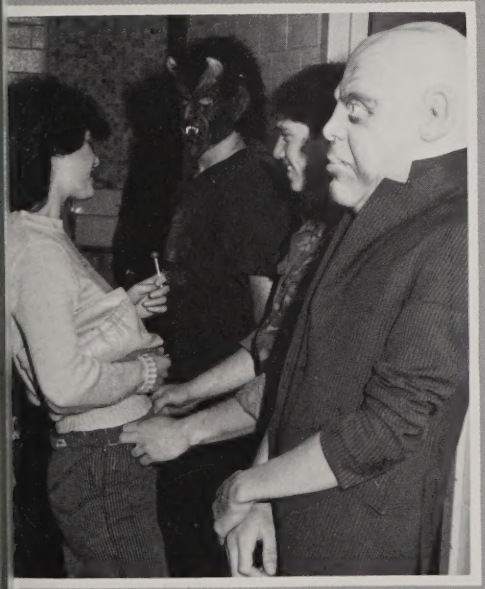
So Special . . .



There's no disguising school spirit at a pep rally! The cheerleaders encourage the sophomores to show their support for the football team before the Thanksgiving Day game.

How can Julie Manuel and Paul Williams keep straight faces when they're surrounded by ugly monsters? To Paul's left is Bob Bixby, and to his right is David Tremblay.

Remember those football games when we were in our freshman year?

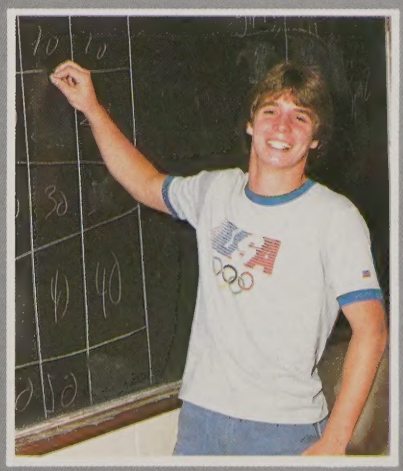
Surprisingly Colorful . . .



Mark Hartwig tries his luck at being a teacher, but he just can't seem to get the class motivated.

Karen Scerra (left) and Kim Maliff always seem to be happy and smiling.

Kathy Malkasian puts everything she's got into her field hockey games, as do the rest of the girls. It is this dedication that helped the varsity team make it to the District Playoffs.

Even the bitterly cold winds at some of the football games did keep our cheerleaders from doing their best. Here, t cheerleaders stimulate the crowds at the Thanksgiving D game at Auburn High School.

Brett Hodgekins, a member of the cross country team, jogs easily along during a meet with Shepherd Hill.

With our new field lights, we have made night games a regular part of the football season. The varsity team seems to like it — they won three out of the five home night games.

In a play called the "sweep," co-captain David Tremblay (51) blocks the Leicester defensive squad, which gives Tim St. Germain (42) a clear path to run with the ball.

A Year of Achievement in Football

When a football player steps onto the field during a game, winning isn't everything — it's the only thing. Such was the case with our football team. They worked hard and hustled and gave it their all for every game they played. The result of this was a three game winning streak during mid-season, all of which were night games, plus a victory over Millbury at their night game.

Besides the team victories, a few team individuals enjoyed personal achievements. David Tremblay, a co-captain, received the Snyder Award, citing him Most Valuable Player of Pre Thanksgiving Day Game. Dan Coonan, also a co-captain, was honored with the Rotary Club Award, which named him outstanding player of the year. And, just to show that records were made to be broken, Mark Hartwig, the team's field goal kicker, broke two field goal records this season by kicking four successful field goals and by making one of those goals cover forty-two yards. Mark has continuously set and broken field goal records since he joined the football team.

Dave Halley has just fielded a punt and is now running it downfield as far as he can. Halley held this season's record for the most yards gained.

During the junior varsity game with Bay Path, Mark Malkowski returns a punt. He is tackled soon afterwards, but not before gaining some yardage for his team.

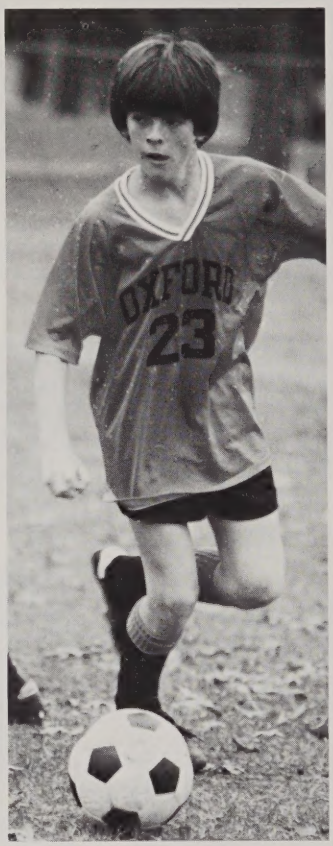
J.V. Soccer Rebuilds

As a group sport, soccer requires long hours of practice to create a team. It takes time to develop plays and for instincts to be on cue. This is what Coach Pietro strives for in each practice and game. The team was young this season, but what they lacked in experience they made up for in enthusiasm. Wins were few, but most games were competitive. There were many outstanding performances by individual members.

Coach Pietro's constant advice and support did not help the team achieve a winning record, but the individual growth of each team player was certainly evident by the season's end.

Rick Blodgett spots an open teammate on the field and gets ready to pass the ball off to him.



"Now, look! If you can't get the ball away from your opponent, just punch him in the face and take off!!" Coach Pietro's humor and advice are eagerly taken in by the junior varsity team.

Gary Rudman's concentration and determination helped him to improve greatly during the season. He became one of the team's best players.

Glenn Kimball, hurt during a junior varsity match, is helped off the field by Coach Hazlewood. Many first-time spectators are amazed at just how rough a soccer game can become!

Vars. Down But Not Out

In recent years soccer has become more popular with the students. Keeping that in mind this season, the soccer team expanded its schedule to include night games. The change was well met by the student body, who kept the team well represented during the season.

The relatively young team faced a tough schedule, including four Division I teams. But they faced the challenge with determination and gave each opposing team stiff competition.

Although the season didn't prove as victorious as the team would have liked, there were some definite improvements among the players. Gary Rudman's offensive skills improved tremendously throughout the season, as did co-captain Doug Roberts' defensive skills. Michael Langlois also made great improvements in his skills as a goalie. And the proudest moment for co-captain Chris Corey was his selection as a Central Massachusetts All Star player.

Biando readies to receive the om a teammate. Two other , Chris Corey and Taso Zaharaidis, run beside him to help Keith if he should need it.

Chris Corey (12) and Taso Zaharaidis attempt to get themselves past their opponent and on to score a goal. Chris' achievements in the season helped to distinguish him as a Massachusetts All Star Player.

Running "Cross Country"

Running is a solitary sport, requiring determination and personal effort from the participant. For a member of a cross country team, this effort is not only needed for himself, but also for the team. Each member of this year's team gave his personal best to bring in a winning season of ten wins and seven losses, which brought the team up to third place in the league standings.

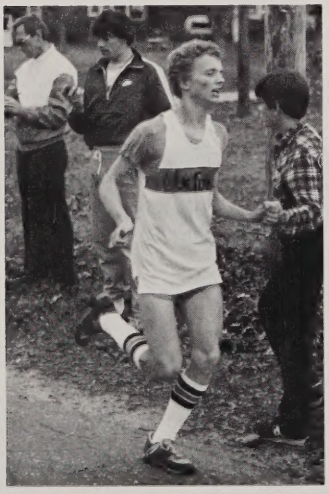
Although senior captain, Mike Elian, had suffered a knee injury and was not able to participate for most of the season, he led the team of six juniors and one sophomore to success with his constant moral support.

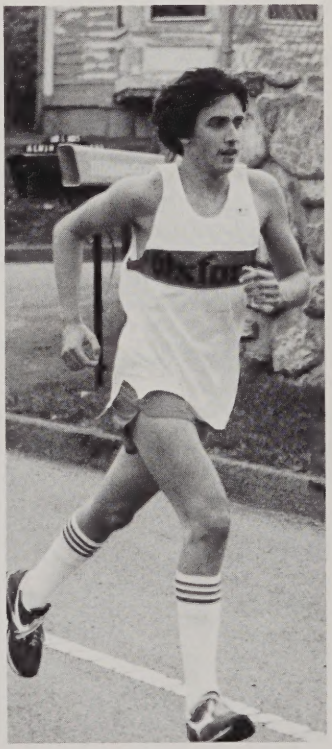
An outstanding coaching job was done by Robert Boucher. Through skillful development of the individuals, he created one of the strongest teams in the league.

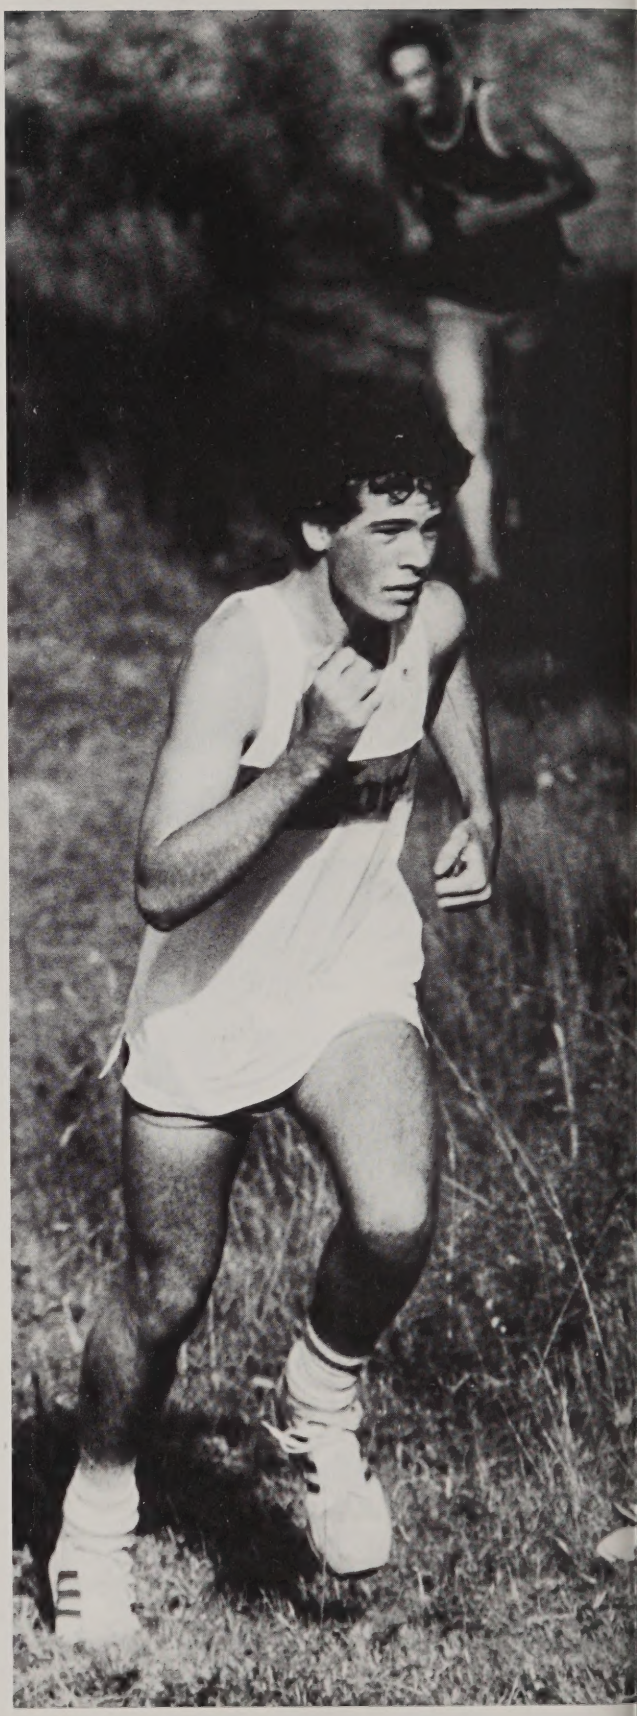
The season was highlighted by a home victory over the Grafton team. After their loss, Grafton went on to become the league champs for the season, their only loss having been to our team. Coach Boucher felt that this was our team's finest hour.

Graves coasts easily along in the home meet against Grafton.

Rookey is congratulated for first place in the Grafton meet. Rookey was the top man of the season, continually taking first place in all the meets our team won.







Bill Zoldack is right behind Rookey at this point in the race, running neck and neck with a Grafton rival.

Peterson's look of concentration reveals in him the dedication of a true runner. He was a steady contributor to the team in all the meets, and his efforts helped to secure the victories of the team.

Zoldack gives his best effort to secure a victory in the Grafton meet.

The varsity girls played a winning season, doing well enough to qualify for the district playoffs. Although they lost their district game to Oakmont, it was the best game the team played, leaving the players proud of their efforts.

Player Kathy Malkasian distinguished herself by scoring ten goals and three assists, and was chosen as a Telegram and Gazette player of the week. Coming in second in goals and assists was co-captain Erin Kennedy, with nine and four.

The junior varsity team was not as fortunate as the varsity team because of the lack of experienced players on the team. However, the girls were never lacking in pride and enthusiasm, and represented their school to the best of their abilities.

The varsity team takes a long-awaited breather from their game, during which the players quench their thirsts and plan the next strategy on their opponent.

Go Jeannie!! Jeannie Chamapagne runs hard and fast down the field. She is determined to stay one step ahead of her opponent and score a goal for her team.

Boys' Basketball

The season was fairly successful for the varsity boys, as they hovered around the .500 mark. With the lack of bulk and height, the boys knew they were in for a tough season. But the aspect that stood out the most when watching the team play was the all-out hustle and desire of the squad. And, although there were no championships or tournaments, the captains Hartwig, Elian, and Herrion provided outstanding leadership on and off the court.

Some of the "tops" of the season included Michael Elian as top scorer (14 p.p.g. ave.), Peter Terlizzi as top rebounder, and Thomas Herrion as top in assists. Mark Hartwig, the main captain of the team, was the top man as far as spirit and overall team support went, which was obvious by observing any of the games the team played.

The j.v. team also had a productive year, considering the relatively young team. Nearly all of the team's games were very close and competitive, and most losses were a matter of five or less points' difference. This was mainly due to the leadership of tri-captains Peter Farrell, Dan Ivascyn, and David Widen.

er Terlizzi takes a well-timed shot at the hoop, eammate Tim St.Germain readies himself to b the rebound, should the ball not go in. This time, Peter's shot was successful, bringing the team two more points.

During the warm-up time before a game, the players psyche themselves up for the best performance they can give. Here, Peter Terlizzi practices his lay-up form.

est of the varsity team watches with intense est as the five starting players get ready for eginning jump ball.

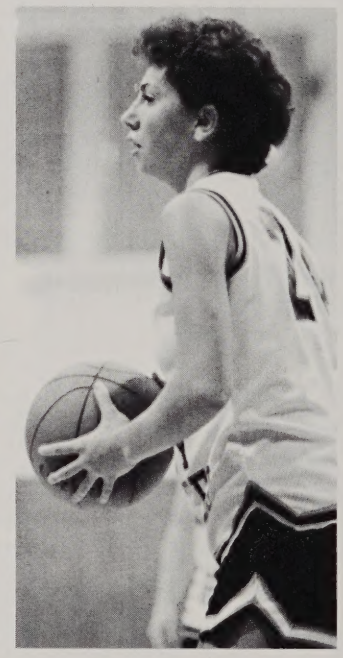
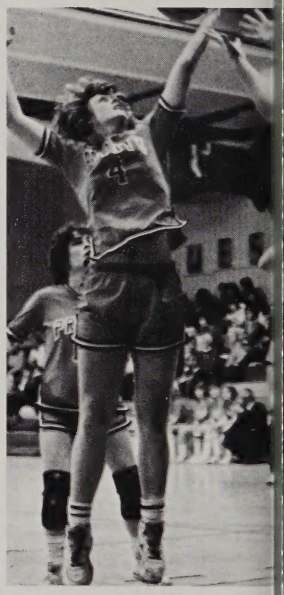
Varsity captain Lynn Malkasian takes a breather during an exhausting quarter against David Prouty. Lynn was the team's starting center for all of the games.

At an away game, the entire varsity team swarms around Coach Steiner during a time out period to plan the next strategy against their opponent.



Kathy Malkasian looks around the court for an open teammate to pass to.



In a night game against David Prouty High School, Kim McGovern (#32) and Cheryl Thompson (#44) reach for a rebound.

Girls' Varsity Bask.

The varsity team, as was predicted by most of the student body, enjoyed an outstanding season, closing with an impressive 17-1 record. For the second year in a row the team defeated the reigning West Boylston team to claim with them the co-championship of the Southern Worcester County League. This was the main goal of the team this year, and so the closeness and morale among its members was very high as they saw their dream become a reality. The team's great season also was their ticket into the District Playoffs, a story which will be covered in the yearbook supplement.

The girls felt that they had to work very hard for such a successful season, but that it was worth every bit of extra effort, Captain Lynn Malkasian felt that the support from the students and other fans at all of their games helped to give the team that extra incentive to do their best.

Improvement for J.V.

The junior varsity team of any sport is often taken for granted by the members of its school. In actuality, though, the members of a junior varsity team are the ones who are making the great improvements in skill and teamwork as they make their way to varsity-level playing. Such was the case with the junior varsity basketball team. Made up of six freshmen and four eighth graders, the team threw itself into each one of its competitions with opposing schools. Except for a few instances, the team succeeded in keeping the scores very close.

Now that the season has come to an end, some of the team members feel that, given the chance to repeat the season, they would come up with many more victories. It was a season of learning and hard work for the girls, but the knowledge and experience they have gained has made it all worthwhile to them.

Sue Cook really "battles it out" with a David Prouty player to gain possession of a loose ball. She finally succeeds.

Even though they are on the bench for the moment, the J.V. players never stop watching the game for a moment. When they get their chance to play, they must know exactly what is going on!

Everyone in OHS is aware of the fact that there is a Math Team in the school. Everyone knows they go to other schools to compete in math meets. But how many people know what a math meet is, and what it entails for the member of our Math Team? Probably not many.

The Math Team practices for their meets every Tuesday after school, under the direction of its adviser, Mr. Fontaine. OHS has three math teams, each with five members, which compete in the meets. There are four meets per year for our teams, each held at neighboring schools on the first Wednesday of every other month. Approximately twenty schools compete in every math meet, and if every school brings the three teams that they are limited to, that add up to a very large group of math sharks!! A good-sized meet will have anywhere from 200 to 250 students competing in it.

At the meet, there are five rounds, and each member of a team competes in three of those five. Each round consists of three math problems, and a participant is awarded points for every correct answer he/she comes up with. The number of points varies with the degree of difficulty a problem contains.

At the end of the meet, each school adds up the total number of poin scored by each of its three teams, ar adds those three scores up to a grar total for that school. The school wi the highest number of points receiv first place, and so on.

There are three divisions of ma teams into which schools ar categorized. OHS is in Division Thre the category for smaller, public schoo In its division, OHS's Math Tea achieved a third place standing in one its meets this year, and in the oth meets has represented OHS to be a solute best of its abilities.

The Student Council enjoyed one of most successful years in the history OHS. The Council undertook many jects with great enthusiasm, some of ich are mentioned here.

Spirit Week was the Council's major ject for the fall, and it took place ing the week and a half before the anksgiving Day Football Game. The ek started out with the annual Class h the Most Class contest, in which mbers of all classes contributed coins he five jars labeled for the five sses in OHS. Each coin had a certain nt value; pennies and dimes tracted points, nickels and quarters led points. By adding points to /her own class jar and subtracting nts from others, a student could help his/her class to rack up the most points by the end of the contest. This year the seniors won the contest and took all the money from their jar into their treasury. The juniors, in second place, received $100.00. All the rest of the money went to the Council treasury.

The Council also ran the Spirit Days, which were Crazy Tie Day, Hats & Shades Day, and Orange & Black/Uniform Day. The end of Spirit Week was celebrated by the Council-sponsored Fall Into Spirit Dance, a great success.

Some of the other projects were the following:

— Attended a Fall Student Council Convention in Leominster
— Raised $800.00 for a fire-devastated family in 3 days
— Helped in a "School Clean-up Campaign"
— Acted as aides during fall Parents' Night
— Acted as aides during Eigth Grade Orientation in January, the first year this orientation took place
— Organized the annual Blook Bank in the Spring
— Supervised a town-wide Field Day for the Elementary Schools

How did the Council have such an incredibly strong year? As president Donna Metcalf put it, "Cooperation was the key to its success; every member gave more than 100%". Once again, the Student Council has kept its place as a highly respected organization, both in school and community. Its members are proud to be a part of such an active and involved organization.

This was a year of change for the Nanal Honor Society, both concerning lf and the school. At the top of the of changes was the Society's Conution, or set of principles by which Oxford Chapter is governed, which ded a complete revision. This was to the fact that the NHS headarters wanted each one of its chapters unction as independently as possible, ving on its own constitution to keep ce and order among its members and hin the school.

Our constitution had not been revised in many years, so this was no small undertaking. By attending a local NHS conference concerning the revision of the constitutions in our own area, and by discussing the changes and improvements needed in our new constitution, the four NHS officers and Mr. Esposito successfully revised the old constitution by mid-year. Within the next month, the NHS planned and held an assembly for the school, informing the students of the new changes.

Another significant change brought about by the NHS involved the taking of finals in June. The members felt that it would stimulate the level of academics in all grades of the high school if any student with a year-end average of 90 or better in any subject could be exempt from taking the final exam in that subject. This idea was proposed during the January Teacher's Meeting and was approved. The new concept was put into effect at the end of the 1985 school year.

Cheerleaders

The Cheerleading squad consisted of 12 girls, including senior co-captains Michele Filipkowski and Karen Shaw. The girls worked very hard to improve their skills, practicing long hours after school in the deserted cafeteria and hallways.

The squad performed during both the football and basketball seasons to cheer on the teams and to promote school spirit. They also played a large part in this fall's Thanksgiving Day game pep rally, helping to make it the success it was.

Our Pirate cheerleaders inform the opposing team's cheering squad that their basketball team will doubtably lose this game!!

Pep Club

Every Monday afternoon, after the last bell has rung and most students have gone home, they gather in the art room and plan their next attack on OHS. They paint sinister signs that talk of mauling, bloodshed, and death. They practice wierd, rhyming chants to use at the sporting events during the year. They speak with hatred about groups called The Dandies, The Woolies, The Prouty Panthers, The Spartans, and The Wolverines. Who are these ominous and menacing students??? They are the members of the Pep Club!

The Pep Club spent much of their time making posters for each and every athletic contest our school was involved with, to help promote interest in our various teams. Members of the Pep Club attended every game possible, cheering along with the cheerleaders and the band, showing the OHS spirit that makes this group stand out. The club also made a special appearance at the Thanksgiving Day Football Rally to lead the student body in the singing of Onward Oxford, OHS's theme song.

Often it seems the Pep Club gets lost among the excitement of the games. The cheerleaders are out front, the team is the object of all attention, the students are all wrapped up in the thrill of the events. But the Pep Club is responsible for so much of the school spirit that they must not be forgotten. They are the Spirit of OHS!!

Band and Stage Band

This has to have been one of the most rewarding years for the Band — the year this organization finally raised enough money for the new band uniforms!! The Band and Mr. Gillies, its director, were never so proud as when they posed for their yearbook picture, the Band decked out in the fabulous new outfits. In order to raise the money needed, the Band took part in several money-raising activities, including raking the leaves from among the cemetery markers in the North Cemetery (see Student Life section).

But besides the uniforms, the Band carried out their normal activities. These included performing at the football games, marching during the halftime periods of these games with their Drum Major, Jane Gallant, staging their annual Christmas Concert and Spring Concert, and performing at the winter Variety Show.

The Stage Band, a small group of musicians selected from the Band, also performed throughout the year, focusing on the jazz and pop side of music. They played, as did the Band, at the Variety Show and the Spring Concert, but they also toured the elementary and middle schools in Oxford, under the direction of Mr. Gilman, to perform for those students.

Although both the Senior Chorus and the Freshman Chorus did not have many members, they still managed to put on many fine performances thoughout the year. The Senior Chorus sang at the Christmas Concert, and they also made their annual appearance at the Grace Episcopal Church in Oxford. There they put on quite a memorable performance. There were three soloists, who were Maureen Brigham, Dawn Gregonis and Karen Fortin, and David Mullins and Chris Oliveira sang their version of Felis Navidad, a Mexican Christmas song. Their director, Mr. Gillies, took great pride in the accomplishments of the Senior Chorus.

The Freshman Chorus did their share of singing, too. Under the direction of both Mr. Gillies and Mrs. Brunelle, the group sang at the Christmas Chorus and at the Variety Show, and the members were pleased at the compliments they received for their fine performances. The members of the Freshman Chorus are very serious about their singing, and are continually striving for the excellence they know is within their reach.

We've Got Tonight

And that night was March 23, 1984, in the cafeteria that was decorated with stars, glitter and soft lights.

Our band for the night, Down East, played a popular array of Top 40 hits, highlighted by our theme song, "We've Got Tonight," by Bob Seger. The fast songs usually brought out the would-be break-dancers from the class, but the slow, romantic tunes filled the dance floor with swaying couples. Between dances, Russ Ro Photo took our portraits and we ate from the buffet, provided by Princessing Catering.

A little twist was added to the evening when the band announced our principal, Mr. Bacon's fiftieth birthday. Mr. Bacon was attending the prom and so we presented him with a cake and a chorus of "Happy Birthday."

With all these special moments the prom could have been nothing but the success it was.

Dances Return to OHS

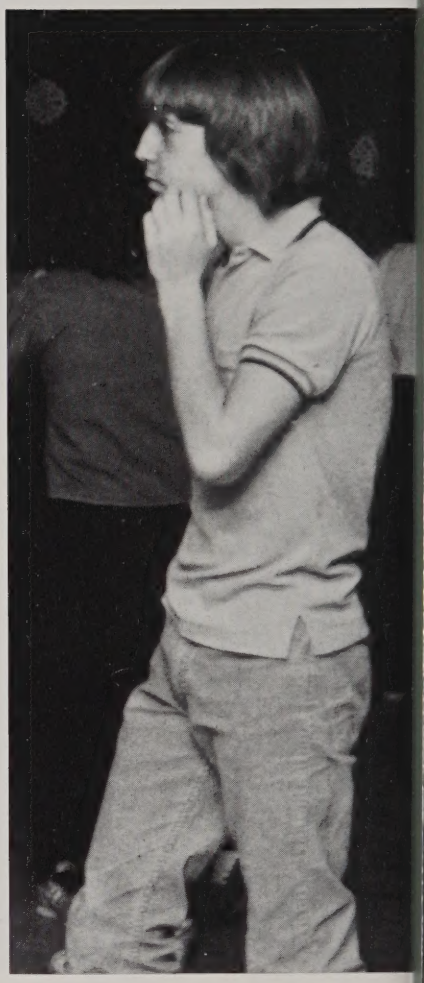
Within the past few years, high school dances have returned to OHS. This year was highlighted by two dances, held in our cafeteria.

On the evening of November 16, the first dance was held to kick off Spirit Week. Sponsored by the Student Council, it was attended by all classes and considered to have been a great success. It was sponsored by the Student Council to build support for the Thanksgiving Day football game.

On December 21, the junior class held a Christmas Dance for the school. The cafeteria was festively decorated by a group of juniors. The music was by Royal Sound, and the resident Santa was played by Mike O'Brian. All clsses attended, and a great time was had by all!

Bia Perondi, the exchange student from Brazil, and Kathy Noe, her host sister, show their fellow students how to get down!

"My God, do these people actually believe can dance?" Rich Shurick wonders if he sh brave the dance floor or sit this one out.



"But, where's Santa? I brought a list, and everything!" Sean Preston takes over Santa's chair as the jolly old elf takes a spin on the dance floor.

Nadine Plasse claps her hands to the beat with friend Kristen Blomberg and her date. The Juniors' Christmas Dance was a great way for friends to celebrate the festive spirit of the holidays.

Pep Rally: Bash Face!!

The one and only pep rally was held on November 21, to psych up the football team and the student body for the Thanksgiving Day game against Auburn High School.

In a school-wide competition, each class made a banner to go along with the theme "Fall Into Spirit." The faculty voted on the banners during the pep rally, awarding the junior class first place. There were also lots of posters and signs on the walls, made by enthusiastic individuals.

During the rally, the cheerleaders put on a skit about how they met 20 years in the future, in a bar, and their remembrances of the "good old days" at OHS. The football team, not to be out-performed, put on their own skit, in accordance with the "Fall Into Spirit" theme.

The senior football players stand up for recognition by the rest of the wildly cheering senior class.

"Speech? Did somebody request a speech?" Co-captain Paul Williams approaches the podium to give the school his words of wisdom concerning the up-and-coming game.

Kim Jones puts some extra effort into her raking, knowing how good she will feel with her new band uniform on.

Leaves, Leaves!

The enthused and ambitious members of the band decided to raise some money for the new band uniforms they had been trying to purchase since last year. For a few days, they raked the leaves from the North Cemetary for two to three hours after school. The group not only came out of the venture $335.00 richer, but they also gained a real feeling of friendship and camaraderie, of working together towards a common goal.

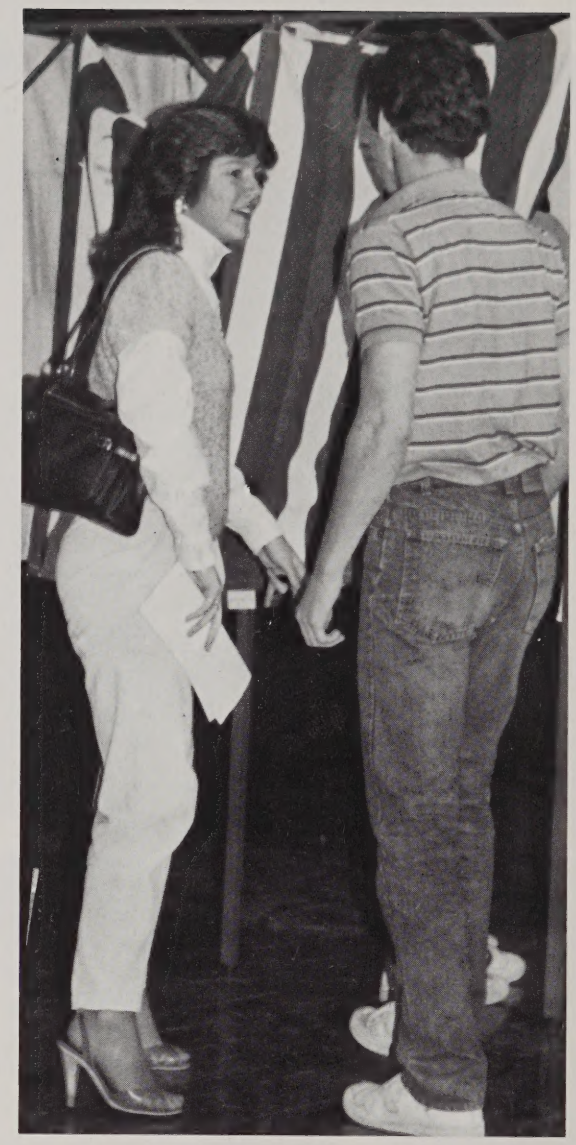
aine Catusi, who plays phone in the band, really n't mind giving up some of her e time for the band.

The Votes Are In!

The Good Government Day Assembly is always an important occasion for the school, a day in which the students actually vote one of their peers into office for a day, but this year was a Presidential Election year, and so the occasion was made extra special. Besides the regular voting for the GGDR, a special mock election was organized by history teacher Mr. Boucher and his sophomore classes. Because of the added importance of the election, voting booths were set up on the stage for the students' use, while in past years the voting was much less private.

The candidates for the position of Good Government Day Representative were Michele Filipkowski and Patti Jeffrey. While at the podium during the assembly, both gave well-thought, concise speeches stating why each wanted to be elected as GGDR. In past years, the tone of the assembly had often been light and humorous, but this year the mood was a very serious one; both candidates really wanted to be elected.

But, as in every election, there is only one winner, and that person was Patti Jeffrey. In the mock election, the main winners were Reagan over Mondale for the Presidency, and Shamie over Kerry for the U.S. Senate. In the actual national election, Reagan and Bush won by a 49 state landslide, but Kerry, not Shamie, won the seat in the U.S. Senate.



Pam Powers finishes her voting in the voting booths set up on the stage, and holds open the curtain for Jim Maliff to enter.

Gymnasium Reopens

It had been almost two years since we had had normal physical education classes or basketball games when, on the first day of school, Mr. Bacon announced the reopening of the gymnasium. The floor of the gymnasium had been water-damaged during a fire which took place in the winter of 1983. The fire was in a supply closet which was on the second floor, almost above the gym. The water used to quench the flames overflowed onto the gymnasium floor and caused the wooden floor to expand and buckle up into huge ridges.

During the time when the damaged floor was being replaced, the physical education classes were held either on a small, undamaged portion of the floor, or in one of the two lecture halls. All of our basketball games were held in the Oxford Middle School's gymnasium.

Now, two years later, the new wooden floor appears complete with the painting of the Oxford Pirate in the center circle, and, in addition, the word "Pirate" has been painted onto the two ends of the court, an addition the students are happy about. Much to the delight of the school, the Oxford Pirates and the Oxford Lady Pirates are once again holding their basketball games at OHS, and the physical education classes are back into full swing.

Jared Kleiza takes part in his third period gym class.

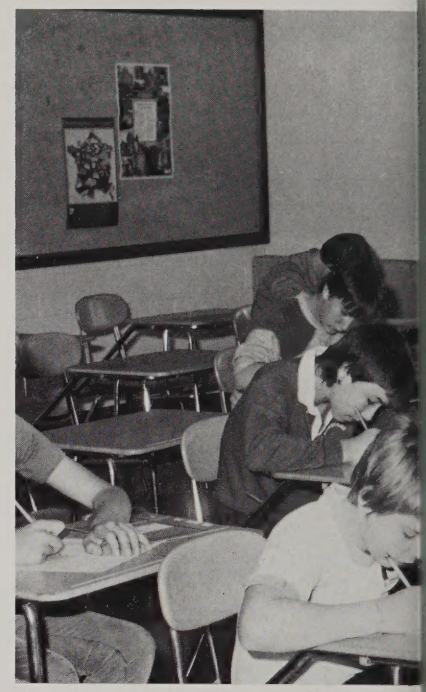
Mr. Ducharme named "Teacher of the Year"

Mr. Ducharme receives his plaque from Mr. Sorello, the American Industrial Arts Association Representative.

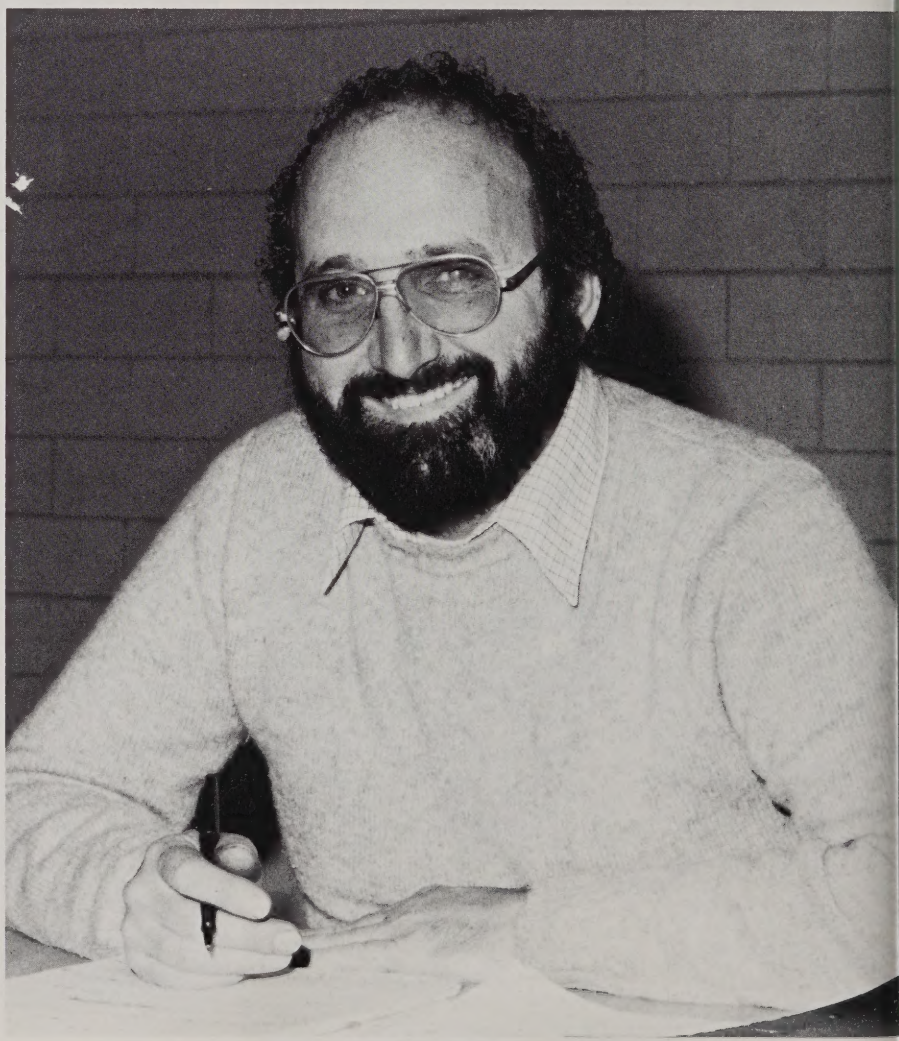


Mr. Ducharme, OHS's woodworking instructor for the past seventeen years, received a very prestigious honor at the Massachusetts Industrial Education Society's annual meeting this January. He was selected as the Society's "Outstanding Teacher of the Year, 1985." Mr. Ducharme was taken completely by surprise by this award; he had no idea that his work would earn him such recognitiion, or even that someone had nominated him for the award.

The man responsible for nominating Mr. Ducharme was none other than Mr. Thomas, the metals instructor who shares the same shop area. In his interview with Irene Daviau of the Oxford Times, Mr. Thomas stated that he wanted to nominate Mr. Ducharme because he simply feels that he is the best teacher in the state. Apparently, he is not the only person to feel this way.

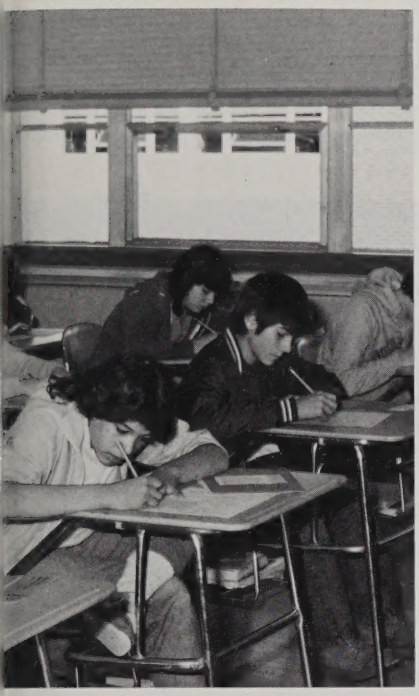
Mr. Ducharme's nomination was accompanied by many letters of recommendation, from teachers and students alike. The gist of these letters was that Mr. Ducharme pays special, individual attention to each and every one of his students. They also stated that he is an extremely popular person with his students, and he has the ability to motivate his students to perform to the best of their capabilities.

Has success changed Mr. Ducharme? Only enough to be even happier about his work, it seems. The award given to Mr. Ducharme is a wonderful tribute to our industrial arts teacher, but if it weren't there he would be just as fine a teacher.

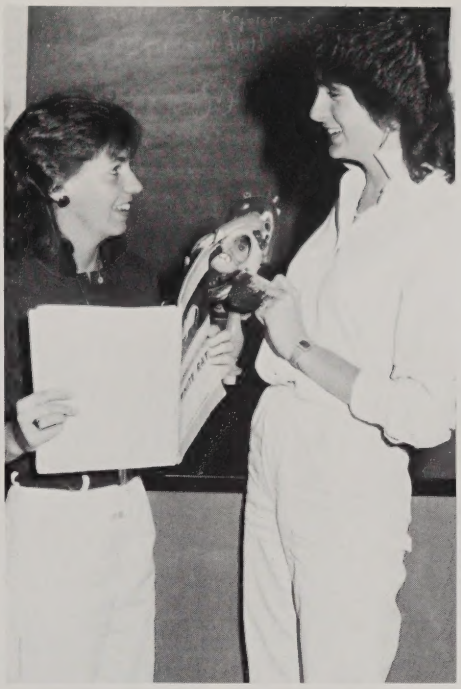


Mr. Duchrme as OHS knows him: dedicated, kind, and always hard at work, loving every minute of it.

ıy of the eighth grade students seen here will ıave to take a final exam in this subject if they ı their grades up high enough!



Tara Londergan (left) and Michele Filipkowski may not have to worry about studying for their Chemistry final, unlike last year's Biology final, which is what they were studying for here.

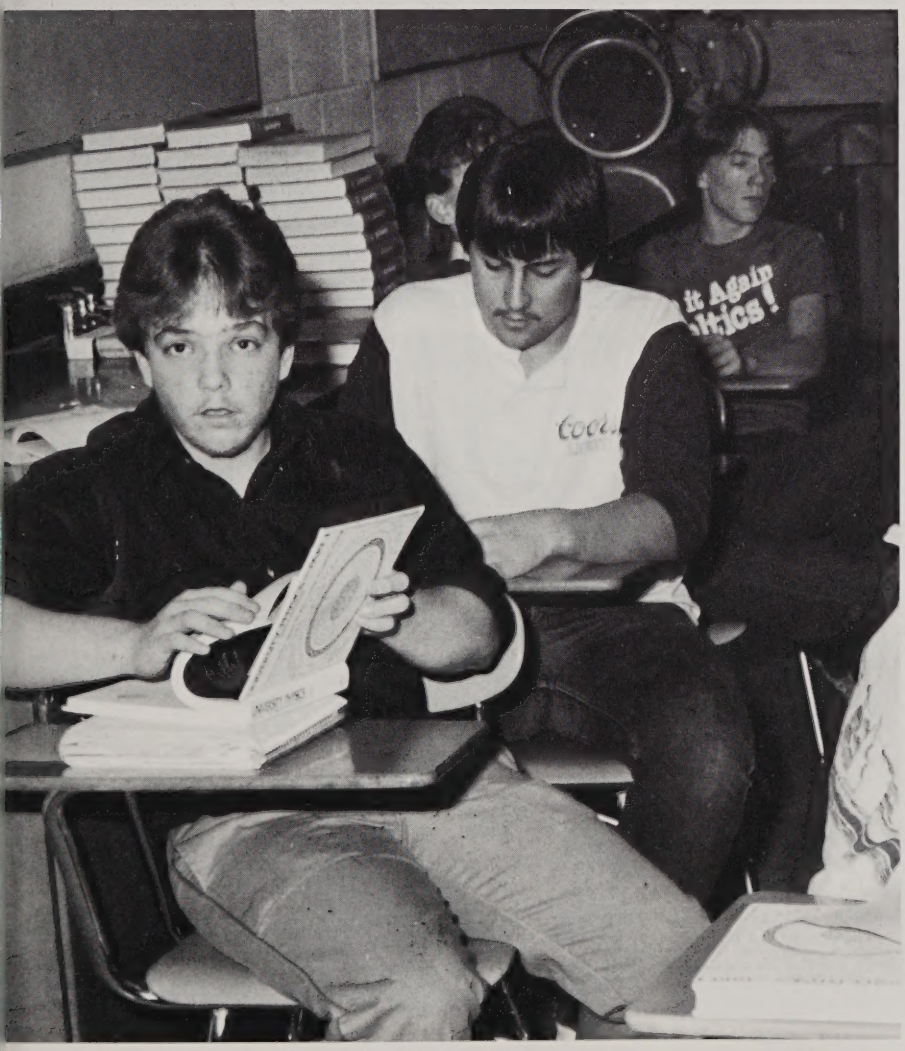


Finally! A Way Out of Finals!

With the coming of June in any school comes an excitement, because the summer vacation is so close at hand. In fact, most high school students have looked forward to June probably since September! But one of the bad things about June is the fact that most students find themselves facing the dreaded final examinations. For a student at OHS, though, this June will not bring him/her a final in any subject in which he/she has a cumulative average of 90 or better. Students who have worked hard all year to keep their grades up will be able to choose whether or not they want to take a final exam in, ideally, all of their courses. What a choice!!

This idea was first thought up by the National Honor Society as a way to promote better grades for all OHS students. The concept was that a student would strive for good grades in all of his/her courses for the entire year, so that he/she would not have to take the final in that course. It could become an incentive for better grades, and therefore, better learning.

The idea was presented to the Faculty by National Honor Society Adviser Mr. Esposito at the January Teachers' Meeting. There, after much discussion, it was passed, to be put into effect at the end of this year. The students were understandably pleased with this new change in school policy, and those students who had been putting the effort needed in their courses to earn A's on their report cards felt as if all that hard work had just been rewarded for them.



"You mean I might not have to take my Physics exam? It's too good to be true!" Chris Hakkala goes into shock as Mark Cady (behind) makes a note to ace all his tests for the rest of the year.

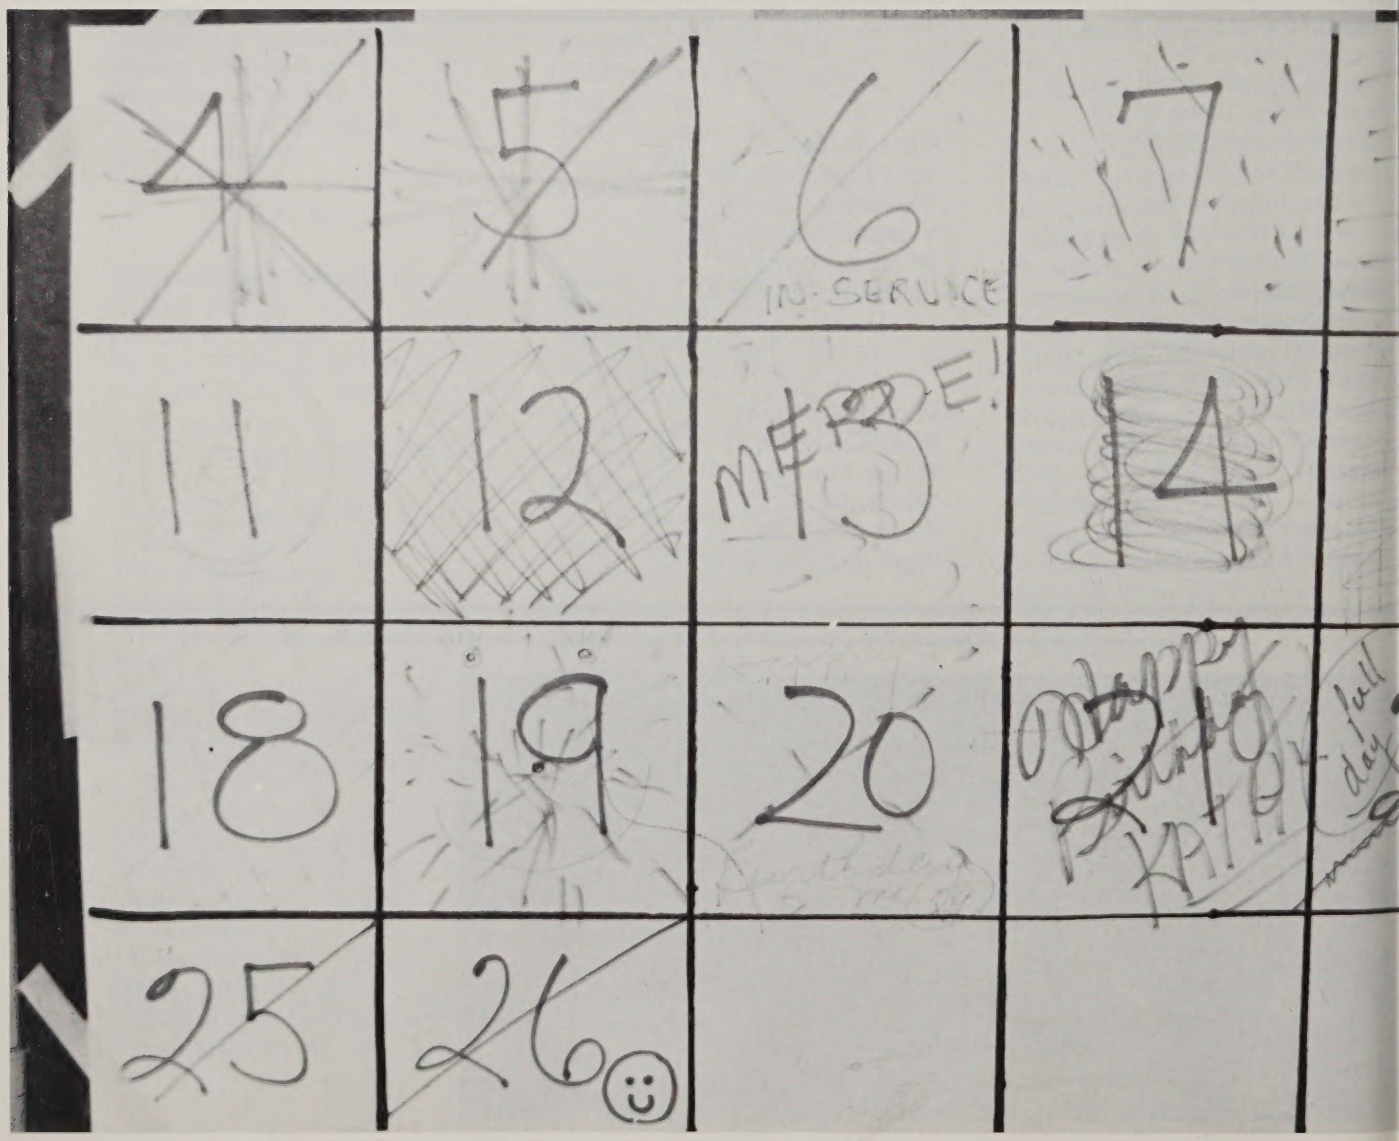
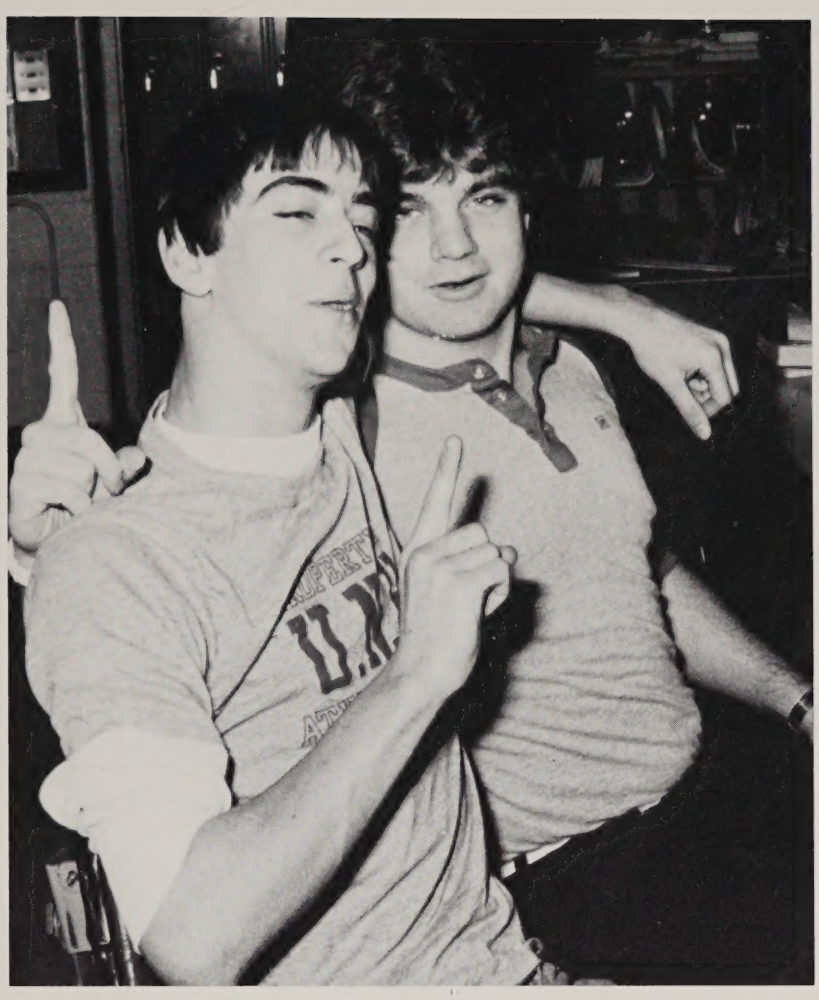
And as the magical month of June approaches . . .

Miss Seale contemplates as empty classroom during what used to be her English Literature II class. The remaining juniors in the class took the final exam the day before this picture.

Yes, the teachers also feel the excitement of the upcoming summer vacation! This calendar hangs in the teachers' lounge upstairs, near rooms 201-A and 201-B, and it is plain to see that the teachers enjoy crossing off each day that brings them closer to the vacation as much as we students do!!!





OHS students:

As you may (or should) have noticed, the Ravelin's has undergone quite drastic changes since its last publication. We, the editors, did this for two reasons: first, we were tired of seeing the same book produced year after boring year, and second, we felt that OHS and its students deserved a better yearbook, because we have certainly become a better school over the past few years. We sincerely hope that most of the students like what we have done and wish to improve it further in the years to come (and there is plenty of room for improvement, believe us!)

We wish you all a very happy summer, we extend our congratulations to the graduating class of 1985, and we truly hope that next year's editors of the yearbook continue where we left off in our pursuit of a finer publication.

Lynne Olney and Jean O'Reilly
The Editors.

"One day left for the seniors! One day!!!" Dan Coonan (right), a senior, can hardly wait for tomorrow, but his friend Tom Sullivan will have to wait a few more weeks for the underclassmen's final day of school.

Lynn Malkasian, on the bottom, can leave OHS confident that her little sister Kathy will take her place as one of the most valuable players on the Field Hockey and Girls' Basketball teams in the year to come. Both sisters were major factors in the teams' successful seasons this year.

"I don't mind this huge pile of work I have to get done, but I can't find my cup of coffee!!" Mrs. Kudron faces a deskful of lab reports, homework assignments, and uncorrected quizzes sans caffeine.

This year, the Yearbook staff decided to try something new. We gave the parents of the seniors a chance to put into words how they feel about their graduating sons and daughters. We put these personal comments into a special "Parent Farewell" section of the book. So many

Sandra Brooks	Sandra, You set a goal for yourself and you accomplished it. We are very proud of you. Continue on the same course and we will be prouder still. Mom and Dad
Kimberly Brown	Kim, We've watched you grow into the lovely young lady you are today. We are so very proud of you. May all your dreams come true. All our love, Mom and Dad
Rachel Cierpich	Rachel, You are special, caring, giving, sharing and loving. You'll succeed at anything you do. You're a hard worker. We are proud of you and we love you. Mom and Dad
Brian Clouthier	Bri, You're always in such a hurry — we hope you find what you're looking for — at UMASS and all through life. Wishing you good friends and happiness. Love, Mom and Dad
Charlene Duval	Chuck, May all your dreams come true. We love you, Mom and Dad
Joe Fallavollita	Dear Joe, Great! Congrats! and all that good stuff. Just know we're extremely proud of you. We'll always be here to help and support you. Keep smilin'! We love you lots, Mom and Dad
Michele Filipkowski	Michele, You've worked hard and we're proud of you and your achievements! We're sure you'll succeed in whatever you do throughout life. Love, Mom and Dad
David Goyette	David, If you approach the future as you have the past, you will be assured of happiness always. I'm proud of you. Love, Mom

Lori Grey	Congratulations L.A.! May the pot of gold at the end of your "rainbow" be filled with love, success, and happiness always. Love, Ma, Dad, and Kevin
Katherine Heeps	To Kathy, Our daughter who can make us laugh, Remember Electric Ave. All our love and best for a bright future. Love, Mom and Dad
James Hoffman	Dear Jimmy, To a fine person upon your graduation, may you succeed in all you do for you have the will to do it. The road may be rocky at times but you will find the right path in your goals in life. We are all proud of you. Good luck in the future. From all of your family
Richard Hynes	Rich, Leave a good impression on everyone, and live in peace on Earth. Mom and Dad
Tara Londergan	Congratulations Tara! Good luck in all your future endeavors. You make us very proud of you. Love, Mom and Dad
Darline Maesto	Congratulations Darline, We are very proud of you. This is only one of the many goals we know you will achieve. Thank you, just for being you. Love, Mom and Dad
Michael Mercier	Congratulations Mike, May your future be filled with success. Love, Mom and Dad, Leanne, Kevin, and Cheryl

FAREWELLS

Lynn Malkasian	Lynn, Your accomplishments in the classroom and in athletics have made us very proud parents. Mom and Dad
Donna Metcalf	Donna, We hope all your dreams come true. You worked hard, and we are proud to call you ours. Love , Mom and Dad
Paul Metcalf	To Paul: Trust in God, Believe in yourself, Dare to Dream. Love, Your Family
James McGrath	Congratulations Jim, We're very proud of you! Mom and Dad
Jean O'Reilly	Jean, Good luck! You will be a success in whatever field you choose. Love, Mom and Dad
Robert Picard	Rob, We hope you fulfill your dreams, become successful and find your place in life doing what makes you happy. Love, Mom and Dad
Theresa Oliveira	Theresa, You know how proud we are of you. This is one milestone in your life and there will be more to come. CONGRATULATIONS! We love you, Mom and Dad
Ronald Prouty	Ronnie, We're very proud of you and the accomplishments you've made in high school. We hope you keep up the good work in your next four years at college. Best wishes. Love, Mom and Dad
Edward Racicot	Congratulations Ed! You made it. Remember when something ends; something new begins. Happiness, Mom and Dad
Charles Reid	To Chuck and Classmates: Best Wishes. Love, Mom and Dad
Leanne Robert	Leanne, Congratulations and the best of luck. May success and happiness be yours in everything you do. With PRIDE and LOVE. Love, Mom and Dad
April Rogers	Dear April, Congratulations and thank you for just being you. Love, Dad and Irene April, We are so proud of you, now and always. Love, Mom and Lloyd
Karen Shaw	Dearest Karen, Our love, support and best wishes are with you as you start your college career. We know whatever your career choice may be, you will succeed. Mom and Dad
Mary Thayer	Mary, We all love you. We're all proud of you and know you will be successful!!! Your Family
Penny Young	Penny, Our daughter who has always been our Pride and Joy. We love you very much. May God bless and Keep you always. Love, Mom and Dad.

Good friends, Sharon Stone and Kathy Heeps, stop a minute to flash the photographer winning smiles.

Dear Erin,

It doesn't seem possible that you will be leaving for college soon — wasn't it only yesterday you wore braids and took a nap every day? Having you as a daughter has often been a challenge, especially when you wanted a friend instead of a mother; but the joy and laughter you have brought into our lives far outweighs any tears we have shed.

We are proud of your accomplishments, but prouder still of the unique, interesting individual you have become.

Continue to expand your horizons, always keep your sense of humor, remember the good feeling you find in bringing joy to others, and know you are loved because you truly are.

Love y'a lots!
Mom

Love to My Other Daughter, J.G., Too!

June

I stood at the window
And watched them go —
That last day
Of school,
And wondered
If life would surrender
Their dreams.
I wished for them
The impossible wish —
No pain — no sorrow.
I turned from the window
And heard their voices
In the empty classroom,
Then thought of all
The teachers,
Yet to be,
Who would stand
At their windows
And watch them go —
And wish them well.
